Joan H. Brack Career Development Center

Thank You- Interview Follow up

It's important to understand how crucial this part of your job search is. Sending any thank you email after a job interview puts you ahead of over half of the competition.

A great, personalized interview thank you email? That's a difference maker. The bottom line: yes, you always need to send a "thank you for an interview" email.

- According to a recent study, 1 in 5 recruiters and hiring managers will automatically dismiss a candidate if they haven't sent an interview thank you email.
- What's more, this survey revealed 80% HR managers consider thank you emails helpful for reaching the final hiring decision.
- Another report by Careerbuilder shows that 57% of job seekers don't send thank you notes after an interview.
  - *statistics provided by Zety.com

THANK YOU EMAIL TEMPLATE

Subject Line: Thank You [Interviewer's Name]

Hello [Interviewer's Name],

Thank you so much for taking the time to meet with me and talk about the position of the [Position Name] yesterday.

Our conversation made me even more excited to join [Company Name]. What interested me in particular was [something specific you discussed during the interview].

I was thinking about what you said on [the upcoming challenge your interviewers mentioned]. In my current/previous role as [your current position] I found that [a quick explanation of how you tackled a similar problem].

I'm sure my experience can translate into similar success as your new [the name of the position you're applying for].

If you need any additional information from me at this point, please feel free to contact me. I'm looking forward to hearing back from you on [the specific date established during the interview].

Thanks again for your time!

Sincerely,

[Your sign-off]

Still waiting to hear back? See:

- How to Follow Up on a Job Application (read this if you never heard back after sending your resume)
- How to Follow Up After an Interview (read this if you never heard back after an interview)

For more information contact:

Rachel Vingsness Director of Career Development Natick Service Council 508-655-1791 ext. 17 www.natickservicecouncil.org "Neighbors Helping Neighbors"